Introduction – Interview with Atanase Périfan, creator of Neighbours' Day

Atanase Périfan, in 2010, you will celebrate the 10th anniversary of Neighbours' Day, which you invented with a few friends by having a party with your neighbours on a pavement in the 17th arrondissement of Paris. This year, between 9 and 10 million people will celebrate with their neighbours, what is the meaning of an event like this?

A.P: We live in a society where relationships with others have never been so complicated. You don't have to be a sociologist to see it. We see it in our families, our marriages, between parents and children, between teachers and students, between work colleagues, and between neighbours... Why is it that there is so much tension between people? And, which interests me above all, what do we want to share with each other? (...) I believe that people have never been so keen to find meaning in their lives, and that's a positive thing.

Neighbours' Day tries to encourage people, to force them to meet new people, which doesn't come naturally...

A.P: Yes, it's a paradox that we were obliged to invent a "Saint Neighbours' day" in France... But it doesn't matter, we all need a date for our diaries. (...) So people need a pretext, and maybe people also need to be encouraged more than before in order for things, which may seem natural, to work. (...) Our objective, is to see how we can tap into the seam of solidarity that exists between neighbours. How can we encourage them; to increase levels of solidarity between people with a real political philosophy - which is not left-wing or right-wing... just human - which is as follows: "for me, solidarity must be founded on three pillars: the first is the family, which you would think would be natural but it's not the 19th century anymore: when there were four generations living together under one roof it was easy to be together". The second pillar is institutions; organised collective solidarity, the State, social services, and associations; and the third level, in my opinion, is neighbours. What we call 'spontaneous solidarity' ". If we manage to get these three levels to work together, and to complement each other, we will be able to improve our society's social climate.

If you had to create Neighbours' Day it means that there was a weakness in the system, but where? Associations? Public authorities? Elected officials? Housing authorities?

A.P: No, it's just that our society makes it harder and harder to meet other people naturally. There are 1000 reasons for this: through lack of time, through mistrust: people nowadays are suspicious of generous people who try to help – they wonder what's going on. And it's only human, the world is more and more difficult, everyone has their own problems. (...) It's not backwards at all; remember, when people moved from the countryside to the city, two or three centuries ago, it was to blend in with the masses. It must be said that the lack of privacy in small towns was tiresome; everyone knew everyone else's secrets... People were happy to find a little anonymity. But we went too far and today we are too anonymous and people are looking for shared experiences again. You often hear about communitarianism, or social networking, but people simply need to learn how to live together again..

Is there a lot more work to do?

A.P: Yes, when I look at what we have already done, I don't think I would have started this if I had known how much energy it would require. But it is possible to change the world - I believe that. First of all, it means changing everyone a little bit, and the more people change, the easier it will be. Our philosophy is that little things, gestures of solidarity, multiplied by many people, will create a more friendly society.

Atanase Périfan,
Creator of Neighbours' Day,
President of the European Federation for Local Solidarity

Guide to organising a successful Neighbours' Day

Neighbours' Day 2010 : key facts

10th anniversary

32 countries (19 European Union countries)

10 million participants

1 200 city councils and housing association partners

Organising this event is extremely straightforward. You don't need any special skills, just a pinch of generosity and a dash of enthusiasm!

Find a venue, such as a courtyard, a garden, the entrance hall of a building or a suitable pavement if there is nothing else available! The important thing is that access should be easy and the venue should be a good meeting place for people from several different houses or buildings.

Advertise! It's easy to let your neighbours know about the event – posters and invitations are available to download from the website in a wide variety of languages : www.european-neighbours-day.eu

Stick a poster up in the entrance hall of the building displaying the name, time, venue of the event and inviting participants to bring along selection of different European dishes! Then pop invitations into your neighbours' letter boxes and under their doormats. Invite your neighbours to come along and join in;

Stimulate, familiarize and bring together your friends, your neighbours, the caretaker of your building, your tenants' and owners' association...making sure you don't forget anyone!

New for 2010

Launch in Pécs - 2010 European Capital of Culture

The Hungarian town of Pécs, 2010 European Capital of Culture, kicked off a year of artistic events with the theme of central Europe and openness to the Balkans. “Pécs doesn’t just represent the great Hungarian culture, it also represents the strong culture of central Europe” says the town’s Mayor.

Neighbours’ Day will be one of the highlights of the town’s official programme. A special website has been created for the event: www.szomszedunnep.hu

Neighbours’ Day - The Movie!

For its 10th anniversary in France, this socially-aware event inspired the director David Haddad to make a feature-length film. It is released in France on 26th May – two days before Neighbours’ Day!

Focus on the Balkans!

Neighbours’ Day is a big hit in the Balkans. The tradition of neighbourliness, nurtured for many centuries by the Slavic people, has now become an official event, which will be celebrated on 28th May 2010. And after the town of Mostar in 2009, Tuzla in Bosnia and several towns in Serbia and Montenegro have decided to join this project!

Furthermore, we have the pleasure of welcoming three new capitals: Belgrade, Bratislava and Zagreb! This participation is also a strong symbol for the construction of a European identity founded on solidarity and social cohesion.

In Serbia, the areas of action of Neighbours’ Day vary from one town to another and have proven to be highly intercultural. From ecology to the fight against poverty and social exclusion, the themes are many and varied. The aim being to involve as many citizens as possible.

In Montenegro, the towns of Tivat and Kotor have recently joined the Neighbours’ Day movement.

A way for towns and housing associations to bring people together

In Germany, the EFLS can now rely on the support of a major organisation to roll out the Neighbours' Day concept at national level: "Soziale Stadt" (Social Town), a programme that is jointly organised by the Federal State and the Länder (regions).

This year, it will be celebrated in 15 towns, including the five biggest cities: Berlin, Hamburg, Munich, Frankfurt, and Cologne!

Two new national housing associations, ICSH (Irish Council for Social Housing) in Ireland and EUCHA (Estonian Union of Co-operative Housing Associations) in Estonia will take part in the Neighbours' Day adventure for the first time, in order to launch and promote the event at national level among all their members, who already work from day to day to develop good relations among neighbours and local communities.

In Turkey, it's "European" Neighbours' Day

The association "System and Generation", which specialises in European programmes for youth and voluntary work, is promoting Neighbours' Day: three days of festivities are planned in Ankara and Kirikale!

The programme will feature music, photo exhibitions, cookery contests, and meetings between students from different European countries, among other events.

The first Neighbours' Day in Finland

Neighbours' Day has finally been launched in Finland, and this first year will see events in several big towns: Espoo, Oulu, Kemi and Tuusula. All sorts of activities are planned: picnics, concerts, and other events. Many local associations, particularly in Espoo, will be involved in the organisation.

And in the other countries, the party is still in full swing!

In many countries, Neighbours' Day has become more than just an opportunity for neighbours to meet. In the United Kingdom, Neighbours' Day is celebrated in 14 different towns.

Organisers are free to organise Neighbours' Day as they see fit, so the event adapts to the specificities of different countries: from Romania to Poland, Greece, Norway, Slovakia, and many more countries in Europe and even further afield.

A network that keeps growing in Europe...

The E.F.L.S. supports other similar initiatives

In the Netherlands, Neighbours' Day is called "Burendag". The event is organised every year on the last Saturday in September by the Orange Foundation (the Foundation of the Royal family) and the coffee brand Douwe Egberts.
www.burendag.nl

In the United Kingdom: after Neighbours' Day in May, there is the "Big Lunch" in July.

The idea is simple: neighbours meet up for an open air lunch – a picnic or a barbecue - in a nearby park or garden.

Following the success of the first edition in 2009, (1 million participants around the UK) the organisers decided to repeat the event this year, on Saturday 18th July. www.thebiglunch.com

The E.F.L.S in a few words...

Neighbours' Day is an event coordinated by the European Federation for Local Solidarity (E.F.L.S)

× Its objective : promote Neighbours' Day, create local solidarity networks, encourage exchanges on neighbourly and community practices.

× They continue to participate: Thanks to the support of an increasing number of cities, housing associations and local NGO's, Neighbours' day will be this year again celebrated in a lot of countries:

- In the European Union

Austria, Belgium, Bulgaria, Czech Republic, Cyprus, France, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Ireland, Italy, Latvia, Luxemburg, Netherlands, Poland, Portugal, Roumania, United Kingdom, Slovakia, Spain

- In the rest of Europe:

Bosnia Herzegovina, Croatia, Norway, Switzerland, Turkey, Ukraine, Serbia, Montenegro

Around the world with Neighbours' Day...

From the USA to Japan, via Latin America and Europe, you can now find out everything about all the Neighbours' Day events around the world on www.world-neighbours-day.org !

New in 2010!

In Africa

To launch Neighbours Together, Togo will celebrate Neighbours' Day for the first time this year.

The celebrations will feature:

On 28th May: a free concert on the esplanade of the hotel Concordia in Lomé (capital of Togo).

On 29th May: parties will be held in different districts, organised by different groups of neighbours.

In Latin America: "Día del Vecino"!

Thanks to the association "Pro-Vecino", Mexico will celebrate the 11th edition of Neighbours' Day on 15th August 2010.

www.provecino.org.mx

FELIZ DIA DEL VECINO

Not to mention....

On 11th June in Argentina

On 10th June in Bolivia

On 30th September in Guatemala

On 20th December in Uruguay

On 3rd October in Venezuela

And finally, on the second Sunday in October in Peru!

In Canada

In 2009, no less than 2300 parties were organised all over Québec with nearly 200 councils and local organisations acting as relays in their field.

Art takes part! Pascale Montpetit, one of the most popular actresses in Québec, will be the spokesperson of the 2010 edition of Neighbours' Day, which will be held on 5th June 2010.

In Asia: Japan and Taiwan

In Japan, Neighbours' Day lasts all year thanks to a network of 90 Neighbours Together organisations based in towns all over the country. But the party will be at its peak between 13th and 19th May in Shinjuku, the biggest park in Tokyo.

In Taiwan, the biggest party is planned south of Taipei, where 2000 people are expected!

In the USA

Neighbours' Day also exists in the USA under the name of Good Neighbor Day!

Proclaimed a national day in 1973 by President Nixon, it is celebrated on the third Sunday in September in all states in the USA. It is promoted by the National Neighborhood Day association. www.neighborhoodday.org

Neighbours' Day is also in Australia and New Zealand!

Neighbours' Day in Australia was celebrated this year on the last Sunday in March.

Seven years after being launched in Melbourne, the event is more popular than ever. www.neighbourday.org

In New Zealand, after the success of last year's event in Auckland, the organisers decided to celebrate Neighbours' Day nationwide on 17th October 2010.

What if... We continued All Year Long with Neighbours' Together?

The good side of living side by side

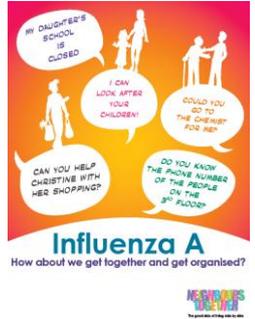

Neighbours' Together was created in 2007 by the founders of the Neighbours' day in partnership with the Ministry of Employment, Social affairs and Solidarity, city halls, social landlords and associations. This program offers people the opportunity to join a positive movement, creator of social value. It has developed a national system for encouraging people to help out their neighbours.

Neighbours' Together has an action plan for councils and housing associations which consists of themed kits (cold snaps, storms, pandemics) and seasonal events (summer kits, « back to school kits » and Christmas).

Each kit includes a poster, a directory, a notice board and a flyer.

The web site www.voisinssolidaires.fr is a great platform to exchange information between members.

El paquete pandemia Vecinos Solidarios

To date, 50 city councils and social landlords are partners in France and 65.000 “Good Neighbours” have been identified. Neighbours' Together' ambition : develop the concept in Europe and mobilize 1 million citizens over the next 5 years!

History of Neighbours' Day...

- 1990 Atanase Périfan, Vice Mayor in Paris and a group of friends created the association « Paris d'Amis » ("challenges for friends"). Its slogan was "Pas de quartier pour l'indifférence" – "no quarter for indifference". Its aims were to strengthen community links, develop a feeling of belonging to the same district, create solidarity between neighbours, and take action against isolation and exclusion. "A real challenge!"
- 1999 Neighbours' Day is launched in Paris 17th district. It was an instant success: 800 buildings took part, mobilising over 10 000 residents
- 2000 the event went national: 500 000 people celebrated with their neighbours.
- 2004 the concept is launched in Europe under the name of European Neighbours' Day. More than 3.5 million people shared a moment of conviviality;./
- 2005 European Neighbour's Day is celebrated in more than 450 cities from 16 different countries. From Dublin to Ljubljana, through Rome, Paris, Manchester, Lisbon, Luxemburg, a lot of city councils and housing associations supported European Neighbours' Day which has become the 1st citizen meeting in Europe.
- 2009 around 9 million people took part in Neighbours' Day celebrations with 1 100 partner cities and social housing organizations in 29 countries.

European partners

European Council

"I believe in the importance of bringing the citizens of Europe closer together. Getting to know the people who live next door is a very good start. Therefore I am happy to lend my patronage to the Neighbours Day 2010. I fully support its objective to develop a network of partners willing to promote a 'better living together'. I hope that this year's Neighbours Day events shall enhance people's interest in contributing to a society founded on common values, such as solidarity, tolerance, mutual respect and the fight against discrimination. Europe begins next door!"

Herman Van Rompuy - President of the European Council

European Commission : European Year 2010

Inspired by its founding principle of solidarity, the European Union has joined forces with its Member States to make 2010 the European Year For Combating Poverty and Social Exclusion. In this context, Neighbours' Day is a great opportunity to raise all participants' awareness about those issues.

This event is also encouraged by :

- CECODHAS, European Liaison Committee for Social Housing
- EUROCITIES, main network of european cities

BNP Paribas

BNP Paribas is a European leader in global banking and financial service, particularly developed in cities. BNP Paribas contributes actively to the urban social dynamism. Last year, in France more than 700 BNP Paribas agencies organized their "Neighbours' Coffee". The idea was: "for Neighbours' Day come and have a morning coffee at your agency!" Based on the success of this operation, BNP Paribas has decided this year to support the concept also in Belgium and in Luxembourg.
